MAINIT AT MALIGAYANG PAGBATI, KA ERDY!

SA ARAW na ito – ika-2 ng Enero, 2008 – isang bagong pahina ang bubuksan sa aklat ng inyong makasaysayang buhay. At kagaya noong nakaraang taon, ako at ang aking pamilya't kababayan sa lalawigan ng Cavite ay mainit at maligayang bumabati sa inyo, Ka Erdy.

Sa araw ng inyong kaarawan, kasama kaming nagdiriwang.

Enero rin noon, 55 taon na ang nakakaraan, nang hinirang kayong Tagapamahalang Ministro ng Iglesia ni Cristo. Sa ilalim ng inyong pamamahala at paggabay, ang Iglesia ay naging matatag na haligi ng pananampalataya sa Panginoon. Ang komunidad at Kapatirang Iglesia ay dumami at lumawak hindi lamang sa Pilipinas, kung saan ito nagmula, kundi sa iba't ibang bahagi ng mundo.

Matagumpay kayo sa inyong bokasyon, Ka Erdy. Ang inyong misyong maipamalita ang Salita ng Diyos ay gawaing walang hangganan, tila bukal na patuloy na nagbibigay ginhawa sa mga nauuhaw at nangangailangan ng kalinga.

Maligayang kaarawan, Ka Erdy!

Young names that will dominate 2008

By Niña Mari M. Sabio
2BU! Correspondent

A NEW YEAR MEANS A NEW start—and a new list of promising personalities everyone's eyes are on! From current winners to industry semi-regulars, here is a listing of talented individuals finally given the break they've been impatiently waiting for.

PENN Badgley

James McAvoy

This Scottish stunner is scheduled to grace the silver screen through the upcoming movies "Atonement" and "Penelope." Famous for his roles in the romantic comedy "Wimbledon," and as Mr. Tumnus in "The Chronicles of Narnia: The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe," McAvoy is sure to make a bigger impact this year with "Atonement," for which he has earned several acting nominations, and with his mesmerizing blue eyes.

Penn Badgley

One look at the guys of "Gossip Girl" and there is no doubt that Penn—or Dan Humphrey in the show—is the hottest of them all. After appearing in TV shows such as "Will & Grace" and "The Young and the Restless" and movies such as "John Tucker Must Die," he is all set to appear in a highly-awaited movie called "Forever Strong." Not just a looker, Penn is also a musically gifted guitar-playing singer who may make his presence felt in the music scene as well.

LEONA Lewis

Leona Lewis

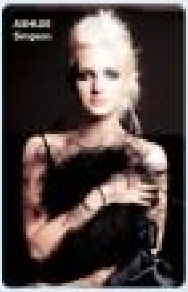

The "X Factor" winner didn't disappoint when her debut album and single "Bleeding Love" topped the charts during the latter part of 2007. Ready to release more songs and videos from her album, Leona surely can't wait to wow the rest of the world with her charm and impressive voice that will remind you of Mariah Carey, Whitney Houston and Celine Dion—combined! She's also reportedly in talks to take on the lead role of Maria in the hit Broadway musical "West Side Story" when it goes back to the New York stage for its 50th anniversary.

Expect a tsunami of recognition for young icons such as James McAvoy, Arnel Pineda and Charice Pempengco

Ashlee Simpson

With older sis Jessica getting bad press for her love life and naughty movie "Blonde Ambition," Ashlee is poised to be the better Simpson this 2008 with a new album called "Bittersweet World." And judging by the first track—the extremely catchy and Timbaland-produced "Outta My Head (Ay Ya Ya)," she's on the right musical track to success. Despite the similarities to Gwen Stefani, Ashlee's still a breath of fresh air.

Fun Snaps from 2007

ONE OF these photographs isn't exactly fun, true. But it has to do with one of the biggest show biz stories in the past year, and also happens to be among our top three favorites. No explanation needed for the rest. It was quite an enjoyable year.
